Stanwood Case 2020-9001 Indecent Exposure

On 11-22-2020 Deputy Scott responded to an indecent exposure complaint and contacted a woman and her teenage son at the Stanwood Police Department. The woman was parked in front of the Haggen store earlier in the day with her son and other children in the car. Another vehicle pulled next to them and the driver opened his door. The teenage son reported seeing the male driver of the other vehicle put his hand down his pants and expose himself while looking at the teenage son and his younger sisters. The male driver reportedly laughed before getting into his car and driving away.

Detective Martin discovered the suspect's vehicle was sold recently and identified the new owner.

Detective Martin contacted the new owner and determined he was the only person driving the car during the time the incident occurred.

The charge of Indecent Exposure is being referred to the Prosecutor's Office for review.

Stanwood Case 2020-9736 Forgery/Identity Theft

On 12-14-2020 Deputy Scott responded to a forgery complaint and contacted the owner of a local business. The victim reported a male employee had altered a check written to another employee and deposited it into his account.

Video from the reception area of the business showed the male employee taking the check from the counter.

Detective Martin and Deputy Scott interviewed the male employee at the Stanwood Police Department. He admitted to altering the check by lining out the listed payee and writing his own name. The employee said he thought his employer made a mistake by writing the wrong employee name on the check, despite the check amount being double what he would normally get paid and the fact he had deposited his real paycheck days earlier.

Detective Martin wrote an affidavit supporting a search warrant for the male employee's bank account information. The warrant has been served.

The charges of Forgery and Identity Theft are being referred to the Prosecutor's Office.
